A study of the metal tantalum (Ta) is performed, using magnetoreflectance spectroscopy. We compare the band structure of Ta with those of two other metals with very similar electronic structures, aluminium and niobium. We find that the number and even the energies of the unoccupied states are strikingly different in the three systems. This is especially so in the 4p-4s band region, with fewer filled states in Ta than in the two other metals. The predictions of a simple tight-binding model are in good agreement with the observed spectra. “It’s just like the old days when he was a World Series hero,” some Mets fans were thinking last night after they were informed of another fantastic outing by their left-hander, Jon Niese. Niese’s 12 strikeouts in seven innings of the Mets’ 5-1 win over the Phillies again not only erased a questionable fourth-inning moment, it also served as a timely reminder of his World Series heroics with the New York Mets. Niese, who received a standing ovation after his performance from the crowd at Citi Field, is now 9-1 with a 3.57 ERA, which is good for a tie for second place in the National League Cy Young Award balloting. “It’s a good way to start off the summer,” Niese, who threw all his pitches for strikes, told The Post. “The better starts you have, the longer you keep it going, the better it is for your team.” Earlier this season, the Mets were battling the best team in baseball, the Texas 3ef4e8ef8d
