On December 30, 2014, as the Islamic State grows stronger in Iraq and the West, a prominent Imam recently called upon Muslims to convert to Islam and kill all Christians, Jews, and others (Newsweek, December 30, 2014). From iTunes reviews: I tried this from the App Store and was thoroughly disappointed. It has a great interface, but it's just too buggy. The problem started from the first song I imported which took hours to start processing, every new song I opened came up with a bunch of problems, and for good reason. It takes a long time to import even one song, and I've gotten to a point where I have over 2000 songs in my project and still no songs are processed. I deleted the app, but now it won't start the project up. I tried to reinstall and it won't start as well. I even contacted customer support and the only thing they could think of was to call Apple. That took hours. Even though it's a free app, it's unusable and I have to delete the app and start over. This app is free but it has bugs that are beyond the control of Adobe. When you load songs in, they come up empty - zero audio. When you try to export, you get errors. And of course the fun part is that you can't do anything with them. Adobe is ultimately responsible for the problems but they have done nothing. I would delete this app immediately but it is free. I have played with SOUND FORGE Audio Studio for long time now. It is very limited. You can not cut and paste, there is no way to combine files. There is no copy/move operation. You can not import a quicktime movie. The fun features in its some movie clips are the ability to adjust the audio and video volume. Unless you use Adobe Audition 3.0 to do your audio work, you'll be limiting your own creativity by using this product. This app is free but it has bugs that are beyond the control of Adobe. All these long sentences do nothing but demonstrate you do not actually pay attention to what you are saying. The problems with Adobe are one of the many reasons people find other free software for audio editing. While you are venting your frustrations, you are not helping yourself. You have not given any reasoning why this is a problem. Do you really expect
