In this post I discuss the ways the biotic network interacts with the physical network. I use this as an introduction to discussing the potential interactions of humans with the biotic and physical ecosystems. To be clear, I am not a biologist, a ecologist or a paleontologist so please forgive any oversimplification of my points. I do believe a detailed, nuanced understanding of these ecological interactions is necessary to understand modern human interactions with our complex and interrelated biotic and physical environments. As much as I am sure that you already know, the entire biosphere is comprised of ecosystems with different dynamics and composition. The biotic communities are composed of diverse groups of species which
